Share of negative-yield euro zone bonds at new record high-Tradeweb

LONDON, Sept 2 (Reuters) - The pool of negative-yielding bonds in the euro area expanded further in August, with almost half of euro-denominated corporate bonds on the Tradeweb platform now carrying negative yields, Tradeweb said on Monday.

Of the roughly 3.4 trillion euros of euro investment grade corporate bonds traded on Tradeweb, 49.51% or 1.68 trillion euros worth, have a negative yield, data as of the end of August from the platform showed. This stood at around 12% in January.

That was the highest share on record, according to data compiled from Tradeweb that goes back to mid-2016.
